History

European settlers began exploiting the resources of this area as early as the 1600's. By the mid-1800's an important railroad line bisected the stream valley and provided a valuable economic link between Baltimore and the northern industrial states. During the Civil War Union troops were stationed here (Soldier's Ridge) to protect the movement of men and material along the line.

By the turn of the 20th Century, trains brought an evangelist and his flock to BeeTree for bible meetings at an outdoor amphitheater on the property. Trains also brought wealthy Baltimoreans to nearby hotels to escape from city life and heat. They also enjoyed the therapeutic effects of the local fresh water springs.

In 1965, 260 acres of BeeTree were acquired and donated to Towson Presbyterian Church. In 2011 TPC entered into an agreement with Baltimore County and the State of Maryland to protect the property from development in perpetuity.

NORTHERN SECTION The northernmost section, accessible by walking trails only, is approximately 100 acres of mostly undisturbed, mixed hardwood forest.
